

Designation of the Mediterranean Sea Area as SO<sub>x</sub> Emission Control Areas

Amended Rules

Rules for Marine Pollution Prevention Systems

Reasons for Amendment

Regulation 14 of MARPOL Annex VI prescribes requirements related to sulphur oxides (SO<sub>x</sub>) and designates certain areas as being SO<sub>x</sub> Emission Control Area (ECA). This regulation has already been incorporated into the NK Rules.

Originally, only the Baltic Sea Area and the North Sea Area were designated as SO<sub>x</sub> ECA, with the North American Area and the United States Caribbean Sea Area being subsequently designated. In recent years, there has been growing support for also designating the Mediterranean Sea Area as SO<sub>x</sub> ECA, and proposal to do so was submitted to the IMO by European countries and Mediterranean coastal nations. The proposal was reviewed by the IMO's Marine Environment Protection Committee (MEPC) at its 79th Session (MEPC79) in December 2022 and adopted as resolution MEPC.361(79).

Accordingly, relevant requirements are amended based on MEPC.361(79).

Outline of Amendment

Add the Mediterranean Sea Area to the areas designated as SO<sub>x</sub> Emission Control Areas.

“Rules for marine pollution prevention systems” has been partly amended as follows:
